PRESS INFORMATION

For release September 1, 2006

Dolbey to Host User Group Forum

Concord, OH – Dolbey, headquartered in Concord and Cincinnati, OH, will be holding a User Group Forum September 18 – 20, 2006. Dolbey users can choose from multiple focus group topics such as “Keys to Increasing Productivity”, “Scenarios and Solutions for the Future of Transcription”, “Managing Transcriptionists in a Speech World”, “Physician Dictation Made Easy” and much more.

Included in the schedule for the forum are expert presenters such as: Keynote Speaker William J. Freedman, Adjunct Professor of Health Law & Policy at Xavier University, Nick Van Terheyden, MD, Chief Medical Officer for Philips Speech Recognition Systems, Roxanne Timmerman, RHIA from Mayo Health Systems and Edward T. Roman, RHIA from Moses Taylor Health Care System.

Dolbey's User Group Forum will provide a dynamic look into the dictation management, transcription and speech recognition solutions they are currently being provided and insight into workflow solutions they may want to implement in the future. Users will be educated on the tools and options they can use to help benefit their current solutions as well as management and productivity tools to maximize their staff and time management.

Festivities will include a welcome reception sponsored by Philips Speech Recognition Systems and a Riverboat Dinner Cruise on the final evening of the forum. To kick off the week, Dolbey is holding a North American Dealer Sales Meeting, announcing the launch several new products to its dealer network.
